

Company

Pinto & Bentes, founded in 1952, stands loyal to its origins with the construction of power lines, such as in LT (Low Tension) and as in HT (High Tension). Today the company has extended its activities being capable of projecting and building electric power transmission and distribution networks, substations, gas distribution networks, telecommunications, water and sanitation, environment, railroad work, renewable energy, along with associated complementary services.